

It has come to my attention that the FCC is considering modifications to LPFM stations that would allow these stations to take priority over current FM translator services. In southeast New Mexico, quality radio stations are few and far between. Most quality programming we receive in this area is carried by translators. In particular, I enjoy K-LOVE christian programming and KENW, public radio, both of which are carried by FM translator services. I encourage you to NOT modify LPFM station service in a way that would be detrimental to the FM services on which those of us in rural areas rely. FM translator service is very important to those of us who do not live in large market areas, and impacts from LPFM stations should not be allowed.
